Disaster seemed inevitable...What we found at both homes was literally miraculous.

I have been a longtime customer of Deanna's and have witnessed many remarkable outcomes facilitated by her work. I have used Deanna's services for my homes, business and even my daughters' college dorm rooms.

In October of 2012, the weather forecasts predicted the possible devastation expected by Hurricane Sandy. Listening to these predictions, I immediately thought to call Deanna to employ her services for our family home on the beach in Sea Girt and for my daughter's home in Monmouth Beach. Both homes are in areas that were being evacuated. Deanna recommended interdimensional work for the two homes.

Early the morning of the storm, security cameras at my daughter's home showed the lagoon rising and covering the backyard, while the river was rising and completely covering the driveway in the front of the home. The cameras went dark when the area lost power. Disaster to the home seemed inevitable. We would have to wait to see.

The force of Sandy hit at high tide, leaving many areas of the Jersey Shore devastated beyond what anyone had imagined. It was several days before we could even get back to the two homes to check for damage.

What we found at both homes was literally miraculous. The home in Monmouth Beach had water in the garage, but the water level had missed rushing through the living space by a mere 2 inches. Hard to explain was the fact that IT WAS THE ONLY HOME ON THE STREET THAT WATER DID NOT RUN THROUGH THE FIRST FLOOR.

What we found at the beachfront home in Sea Girt was also amazing. The home next door had part of the roof ripped off and the air conditioning unit was moved from its foundation. Several homes on the street had water rush through the first floor. Our home had a small privacy wall on the patio blown down. Other than that, THE HOME WAS COMPLETELY UNDAAGED.

The only explanation for these miracles was the interdimensional work that Deanna had done on behalf of the two homes. Deanna's work had invoked Divine protection and both homes were spared from the ravages of the worst storm to hit the Jersey shore.

Words cannot express our gratitude for the services that Deanna performed.
